

The MagicDichol® Family of Products is made from food we eat every day

The active ingredient in the MagicDichol Family of Products is Metadichol®, a patented nano-emulsion of policosanol. Policosanol is a set of long-chain alcohols that is present in many of our foods in their unrefined state, such as wheat, rice and sugarcane. MagicDichol sells this as NANO SOMA®.

Because policosanol is a lipid and lipids are required to create the envelope in which biology can exist, policosanol is older than the oldest biological cell. As such, it is no surprise that our bodies welcome this particle so readily.

Fellow Aussie and master intuitive Lorraine Mill describes this piece of “natural magic”, including her insight that “this particle is not from here,” which indicates that this particle brought the blueprint of human and perhaps all biological life to Earth. It is no surprise, then, that NANO SOMA triggers the functioning of many processes in our bodies that otherwise remain dormant.

There are many policosanol supplements available, and these can reportedly reduce cholesterol levels. The secret to Metadichol is in turning policosanol into a water-soluble nano-emulsion. This is when the “magic” happens.

Metadichol is the key ingredient in all three of the MagicDichol Family of Products: NANO SOMA® Liquid, the NANO SOMA Topical Gel, and the NANO SOMA Skin Cream.

Each of these products has its place in activating our body’s natural healing mechanisms and they are complementary to each other.

To be clear, these products do not treat, heal nor cure any illness or disease. Their secret is that they activate our bodies to function on a level we never imagined possible, enabling the body to recover from every human health issue against which they have been tested. Metadichol is like the missing key to the functioning of our bodies, which we did not realise was missing until it turned up.

In truth, this product has been bubbling up into our experience over the millennia, since a small fraction of the policosanol that was present in our diets, before refined foods, is in the nanoparticle form, making it a natural nanoparticle.

And so, Metadichol is intimately known to the body, prompting it to repair and protect itself in ways we never imagined possible. The developer of Metadichol, Dr. Palayakotai Raghavan (Raghu), says it is safer than salt and sugar and has no known side effects. He says you can drink a liter/day without harm and has done so himself.

When Metadichol is present in the body, the body has been shown to clear for itself many pathological agents and it is anticipated to prompt the clearing of all such pathological agents.

Raghu says that it also prompts the body to clear heavy metals, pesticides, herbicides, parasites, and toxins.

Because of its extremely small particle size (less than 60 nanometers), Metadichol can permeate every cell in your body, including your bones, your brain, and indeed, any organ in your body.

In fact, Metadichol has also been shown to support the body's recovery of many of its organs with no other intervention. A key factor in this process is that Metadichol triggers the production of pluripotent stem cells throughout the body – a key to the body's ability to comprehensively and naturally repair itself.

Here is a testimonial on the natural repair of the heart. Cardiologists who see this struggle to accept it. Bev has become a “gym junkie”.

Another key feature of Metadichol is that it has been shown to regulate all 49 nuclear receptors in the nucleus of the cell. Nothing else does this. It also prompts fibroblast cells to create all of the nuclear receptors where there were none before, hence producing pluripotent stem cells all over the body. Thus, in the presence of the MagicDichol Family of Products, your body has the resources it needs to rebalance itself and correct any errors in your DNA.

Metadichol also substitutes for Vitamin D in the body, activating the Vitamin D Receptor (VDR), a critical key to our immunity, and because it REGULATES the VDR, it can turn it down or off when it is overactive, preventing such issues as a cytokine storm, often associated with COVID-19. It also activates the body to produce its own, endogenous Vitamin C, something previously unknown, enabling the body to produce and sustain levels of Vitamin C when needed for the body's immune response that cannot be achieved by externally provided Vitamin C. This natural "supercharging" of our immune system is reason enough to use NANO SOMA every day. Metadichol has also been shown to prompt a reversal in the biological ageing of our bodies.

And this is just the beginning.

Extreme type II diabetes can be resolved by the body in hours, with less extreme forms taking longer. For type I diabetes, Parkinson's and ALS, it may take 6 to 12 months for the body to repair itself.

Here are 60 pages of testimonials gathered by Raghu since 2010 and here are the ones we have gathered since December 2019. This video shares several testimonials and explains why we should use NANO SOMA every day.

Here is a very moving testimonial from a woman whose son had severe autism. After a year of using NANO SOMA, he is showing remarkable improvement.

Recently, evidence has emerged of the contamination of the blood of much of humanity, initially through the recently imposed vaccination regime, but since about April 2023, of the blood of people with no such exposure, as discussed in this testimonial. Some of this contamination may include self-assembling nanobots of various types. As we expected, the above testimonial shows evidence that NANO SOMA can promote the removal of this contamination.

Here are testimonials of people who cleared the jab effects using NANO SOMA.

Again, Metadichol and the MagicDichol Family of Products do not treat, heal nor cure any illness or disease – they simply activate our bodies to take care of themselves. A detailed introduction can be found at magicdichol.info. This website shares with you many of the extraordinary capabilities of our bodies when prompted by these products.

There is a temple in Southern India known as the Vaitheeswaran Temple, which translates to the 'Doctor's Temple' in English, and is understood to be about 5,600 years old. Devotees of the temple bless jaggery (raw sugar from sugarcane) and throw it into the temple pond.

Even though the water looks cloudy, tests show it doesn't contain bacteria. It is believed that this water can prompt the body to heal 4,448 different diseases.

Dr. Palayakotai Raghavan (Raghu), the developer of NANO SOMA says he does not know how the temple devotees came up with their number of 4,448 diseases, though he is clear how he came up with the same number for NANO SOMA. The water of the pond effectively contains NANO SOMA.

Think about that. Then turn it on its head. Rather than focussing on healing, focus on prevention. If these 4,448 conditions can be cleared, spraying 5 sprays of NANO SOMA in your mouth once/day will prevent them (use more for healing purposes).

This nanoparticle of policosanol has gone missing from our food with its refinement. NANO SOMA brings it back. If you understand this, you will use it every day, for less than the cost of a cup of coffee, and bullet proof your health. Do you want to play Russian Roulette with your health, hoping against hope that the chamber that has your major health bullet in it (we all have them eventually) never shows up? Not a game I'm willing to play and I suggest nor should you, now that you have a solution.

Metadichol is an amazing gift to human health and beyond the imagination of most health practitioners. It puts human health back into our own hands. In my opinion, in 20 years' time, humanity will look back and wonder how it was that we lived through this time when illness, disease and ageing were part of the human experience, because they no longer will be.

Allopathic medical doctors have begun to use these products themselves and with their patients. This video shares an allopathic medical doctor's roundtable, where several doctors share their experiences with the MagicDichol products.

Raghu's patents and papers can be found at raghupapers.magicdichol.info. There are many published papers on Metadichol at this link and Raghu has conducted his research blind, meaning he has sent samples to independent labs and specified the required testing without telling them what they were testing, providing his results with a very rare if not unique independence.

Metadichol is patented across 80% of the global population because turning policosanol into a nano-emulsion yields results that you cannot predict from the original form of policosanol; unlike dissolving salt and sugar, which also forms a nano-emulsion but with predictable results.

For a detailed interview I conducted with Raghu, which covers his journey to bring forth Metadichol, you may like to watch the following video: raghu.magicdichol.info. From this interview, it is clear it was Raghu's life mission to bring this gift forth in this time.

Lastly, this brief video new-user.magicdichol.info introduces Metadichol to you, and this document jabresp.metadicholnano.com shows how NANO SOMA can prompt the body to clear the COVID-19 injections and their effects from the body, and includes a link to a number of testimonials from people who have done just that.

The recommended protocol for this is 5 sprays in your mouth every 4 hours for 7 days, then 5 sprays once/day ongoingly thereafter for health maintenance and protection. If you know you have a pre-existing health issue, then it is recommended that you use 5 sprays 4 times/day until your body resolves it.
